In the dynamic and complex world of food logistics, challenges are commonplace. With a partnership from the Fortdress Group, you are optimally prepared to meet these challenges successfully and master your daily work efficiently.

The Fortdress Group: A successful family business.

We are proud to have been an owner-managed family business from the very beginning. Our journey began in the late 1990s when Matthias Lauber founded the company and supplied the local industry with protective equipment. From these humble beginnings, we grew steadily. The first removals and a strategic reorientation to cold protection clothing characterised our development. With the active support from the sons Sebastian & Jerry Lauber we continued to pick up speed. We later founded our own brand, developed our own products and expanded worldwide before expanding our product portfolio with the acquisition of Cold Tex B.V. from the Netherlands.

Success in Figures: Growing together.

Since its beginnings, the company has lived by its mission to help customers move forward. Growing together with all our customers, from small and medium-sized companies to large corporations in the food industry and logistics, is what drives us.

With our two own brands, we can meet the extensive needs of our customers in the food industry.
